Mr. Lanthier,

As the largest pathologist owned group in the western United States, I work every day with doctors who rank top in their field; CellNetix is about quality, service and peace of mind. As we began building our state-of-the-art laboratory and office space, it was important to us to find furniture that exemplifies who we are, with a certain elegance and functionality. The National line of furniture in our previous space provided us the feel and utility we were after. When I searched and found Legacy Group as a local National Dealer I was thrilled. From day one the can-do attitude at Legacy is infectious; everyone in the company has always been extremely knowledgeable about all the products Legacy carries.

From the beginning of our project, the entire Legacy family has always been influential in guiding CellNetix to make the best furniture choices possible, to assure we'll be happy with our choices for years to come and that each piece of furniture will function in the best possible way.

What a great group Legacy has established, everyone is so kind and helpful, generous of their time and expertise, and I could only hope every business relationship is as fun as it has been with Legacy Group. You should bottle up your secret and sell it!

Regards,
